

ABSTRACT

Luchitska V.V. Religion and science on the territory of the KPI: a sociological analysis.

Master's thesis in specialty 8.03010101 - Sociology.

The thesis deals with the problem of the relationship of science and religion at the territory of the Kyiv Polytechnic Institute. According to the international and Ukrainian studies of the the phenomenon of interaction of educational and religious institutions defined how it happens and what type of the relationship it is. In the thesis is defined the existing situation that describes attitude of students toward the category of faith, possibility of combination of religious constituent with scientific and awareness in relation to functioning of Church that was built on territory of KPI. Basic problematic questions that arise up during co-operation between these social institutes are described. On the basis of research presents the attitude to religious institutions functioning of religious institutes on territory of university and possibility of combination of religious by a constituent with scientific after for the achievement of the most optimal results for students and activity of university.