

General sociology - 2

The purpose of the discipline "General Sociology -2" is to form a system of knowledge about the social system of society, understanding the essence of social life and social structure of society, as well as skills of analysis of social phenomena and processes.

The main objectives of the discipline are:

- systematization by students of knowledge on the history and theory of sociology, its basic concepts and methodological principles, classical and modern theories, methods;
- critical understanding of classical macro- and microsociological theories of the XIX-beginning. XX century and assessment of the possibilities of these theories for the analysis of social phenomena;
- development of students' sociological imagination, which should be used when working on individual sociological projects of students.

The task of the discipline is the formation of the following learning outcomes:

knowledge of:

- on the structure of society, social stratification, classification of social groups;
- about social classes in the sociological dimension, the processes of social mobility in modern society;
- about the problems of different segments of the population;
- about poverty as a social problem of today;
- about the main directions of modern sociology and prospects of its development;
- the essence of the latest and application of information technology in education.

ability:

- ensure the consistency and logic of the organization of research;
- conduct a comparative analysis of various theories and approaches;
- apply basic sociological methods of studying social reality;
- find causal links between social processes occurring in society.

As a result of mastering the discipline students will be able to:

- use basic classical and modern sociological theories;
- analyze the social changes taking place in Ukraine and the world as a whole;
- explain the behavior of an individual, group, community;
- find causal links between social processes occurring in society;
- apply sociological methods of studying social reality.