

Sociology of personality, education and culture

The purpose of the educational component is for students to acquire knowledge of the personality as a subject and object of social relations, social factors of education and culture. The discipline belongs to the cycle of professional training. The subject "Sociology of Personality, Education and Culture" is related to academic disciplines "Sociology of Youth and Family", "General Sociology", "History of Sociology", given that these disciplines involve the study of special and branch sociological theories.

The task of the discipline is the formation of students' ability to analyze the personality in view of its formation and implementation in modern society, the ability to appeal to sociological approaches to the problems of education, to analyze modern culture as a social phenomenon.

Students will use sociological concepts and theories provided by the teacher in lectures to analyze the paradigms of sociology of personality, modern sociological approaches to education and culture. Attention will also be paid to group discussions at seminars on the motivational sphere of personality, typologies of personalities, basic approaches in the sociology of education, the essential features of mass and elite culture.